Walk the same streets as world-renowned artist, Munakata

Internationally celebrated woodblock print artist Shiko Munakata fled to Fukumitsu during the war and lived here for over 6 years. His presence can still be felt among the understated streets of the town. Wander the streets of Fukumitsu to experience his legacy.

C-4 Shinmachi Street (Shinmachi Dori)

Old buildings left from the Edo and Meiji periods line the street and alleyways, creating a retro atmosphere. In the summer, an abundance of morning glories gives the street its nickname “Morning Glory Street”.

C-4 Oyabegawa Kasen Park

The Oyabe river runs through the middle of Fukumitsu, with 2 kilometers of cherry blossoms along both sides. Join the viewing festivities in the spring, including light-ups at night.

D-2 Kotokuji Temple

Built in 1471, this temple houses several of Shiko Munakata's masterpieces. The bold, solemn “Flowering Pine” print, said to be Munakata's greatest work spanning 6 sliding doors, is a must-see.
